

Summer Solstice :: First Nations Turtle Island :: Kitchewana :: Giants Tomb
 Ancient people before the pyramids, built mounds, and they're all over this planet, some covered by golf courses, and others sunk by the ice melts over 14 thousand years ago or more. Native Canadians have preserved the Turtle Island myth in oral tradition.

The giant sea turtle went first because he was the biggest. He tried and tried but couldn't descend to the bottom of the rising waters.

Giants Tomb in Georgian Bay, ON faces the summer solstice cardinal direction in a similar way that newgrange Ireland faces the winter solstice cardinal direction, however the island may be slightly torsioned by a degree or three. It's possibly older than many sites.

GIANT'S TOMB ISLAND
SOLD TO AMERICAN FIRM
 Large Gravel and Sand Deposits Will be Transferred to Detroit for Building Purposes.

The Island on Georgian Bay known as 'Giants Tomb' was sold a few days ago to a contracting firm from Detroit, Mich., and the object of the purchase was to secure large deposits of fine gravel and sand that will be transferred to the American city by barge to be used for building purposes. The island was purchased years ago by Mr. Manley Chew and was stripped of its timber, and since that time has remained in his possession until a few months ago when an option was secured upon the property. At the time it was not known to what use it would be put but before the option expired it was taken up, the price being $9,000 and the island passed into possession of the American firm, who now have men engaged there in constructing docks and arranging suitable loading facilities for the transfer of materials therefrom early next summer.

Canadian Ancient Indian Remains in Augusta, Edwardsburg and Escott (Leeds and Grenville)
 Hundreds and thousands of years before the white man's foot had pressed the soil of the New World, there lived and flourished a race of men who called this continent their home. Had they a written history, what deeds of chivalry might we not peruse! What tales of forest! Alas! for their glory, their ardor, and their pride! They have all passed away, That noble race and brave, Their light canoes have vanished. From the crested wave. But, Their name is on your waters, You may not wash it out.

Peterborough Petroglyphs
 These petroglyphs are described by Dr Berry Fell as being ogham, an ancient pictograph writing system whereby the image drawn is symbolic to a word spoken and that word spoken is accented by dots. Ogham is said to be in the archeological record as far east as Ireland and Norway.

Warsaw Caves in Peterborough
 Cities are named so for a reason, and when a land scout returns to describe the land, he may claim to have seen traces to ancient warfare. I saw war, like a trackerman, and it's name becomes Warsaw. There are at least 8 cities named warsaw on the east coast, America, and Warsaw Caves in Peterborough is right next to petroglyphs. It is difficult to say what happened here but it could be an ancient siege on a cave once inhabited by man. You decide. 8 cities named Warsaw.

Ancient sea navigators could do so by mapping thier course to the ocean horizon. The image to the left shows the Kitab al-Bulhan or Book of Wonders (late 14thC.) Legend speaks to a time when holding a curved stick to the horizon, and tying down points could aid one with navigating the stars.

It is on Boulder Four of the famous Track Rock Gap petroglyphs . . . the largest collection of rock art in the eastern United States.
